DEFENDS "SHORT" SALES

A Regulator in Time of Panic, J. G. Milburn Tells Legislators.

Albany, N. Y., February 24.—Instruction in Wall Street methods was given to members of the Senate Codes Committee by John G. Milburn, representing the New York Stock Exchange. The committee had under consideration the bill of Senator Stilwell, which is designed to prevent "short" sales and sales of stocks and bonds upon credit or margin, wherein both parties intend that such contract shall be of a speculative nature.

"If you buy stocks on margin," Mr. Milburn said, "you deposit a certain amount with your broker. He pays full value for the stock purchased, and in return you loan him the difference between the amount you put up and the cost of the stocks. For this loan you pay interest to your broker. If you sell at a profit you get your money back, with the difference between the purchase price and the selling price. If you lose you meet the loss, but the stock is paid for in both transactions."

Speaking of "short" sales, Mr. Milburn said that it would be as fair to prohibit the farmer from selling his crop before it was grown. He added that "short" selling was a regulator of the stock market in times of panic. In answer to Senator Stilwell's question as to whether he did not regard such transactions as gambling, Mr. Milburn replied:

"In the same sense all business is gambling." He argued that such legislation would drive the Stock Exchange over to New Jersey.

HARRY L. WILLIS SENTENCED.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.] Roanoke, Va., February 24.—Harry L. Tyler, of William and Mary College, and Congressman Hays, with some of the ablest lawyers of the state, including Jack Lee, of Lynchburg. The defense was able to make out a strong case, so much so that Judge McDowell, presiding, informed the jury that in his personal opinion the defendant was guilty. Willis took a decoy letter, which contained marked money.

HERE'S HOT POULTRY NEWS.

It's From Winsted, Where All the Queer Things Happen.

Winsted, Conn., February 24.—Roscoe Young has established a novel poultry broodery in his basement, and heated by hot water, so he established a home for newly hatched chicks there after taking up the carpet, sprinkling sand on the floor and building a box about the coils through which the hot water circulates.

Suspended from the top of the box, which has an opening in one end, are many strips of cotton flannel which touch the floor and in which the chicks nestle as they would in biddy's feathers.

Young used to be a tip-top jay dancer, and the sand-covered floor also provides a place for him to indulge in his old-time amusement.

Allen has not given bond, but expects to do so.

Joint Meeting of Both Branches Is Largely Attended.

DEATH OF FORMER RESIDENT

N. & W. to Improve Station Ground—Other Petersburg News.

Times-Dispatch Bureau, 109 North Sycamore Street, Petersburg, Va., February 24.

At the joint meeting of the two branches of the City Council last night Irvin J. Hartley was elected police commissioner to fill the vacancy on the board caused by the resignation of A. G. M. Martin, the president. The filling of this office had aroused a great deal of interest in the community, and the members of the Council had been canvassed very closely.

Every member of the Board of Aldermen was in his seat last evening, and twenty-three of the twenty-four members of the Council answered to their names. Only two nominations were made for vacant commissionships—Irvin J. Hartley and Hatcher S. Seward—and the vote resulted: Hartley, 19; Seward, 16. Mr. Hartley's election was made unanimous.

Mr. Hartley is a well-known and prominent merchant in Lowell, Mass. Seward is a valuable member of the School Board, and did not desire the office.

"Vacancies on the School Board" were filled by the unanimous re-election of J. R. W. Smith, the president, and B. O. Eberton, and the equally unanimous election of A. D. Hamilton.

"Vacancies on the Board of Overseers of the Poor" were filled by the unanimous election of A. B. Wood, from the Second Ward; C. L. Guthrie, from the Third Ward, and H. F. Munt, from the Fourth Ward.

None of the members of any of these three boards receives any pay. They all render services to the city as a matter of duty.

To Improve Station Grounds.

The Norfolk and Western Railway Company will soon improve the wide space in front of the new station. The ground is to be properly graded, paved with vitrified brick and made otherwise attractive. The delay in making this improvement has been caused by objections to the removal of the single track in front of the station, and the building of a track for business purposes along River Street. Owners of property on the street, it is understood, have withdrawn their objections.

Personal and General.

Mrs. William E. Badger is critically ill at her residence on Liberty Street. She has recently returned from Richmond where she was under treatment.

In a fight caused by jealousy last night in St. Matthew Street, Ben Clark, colored, was severely stabbed in the side by James Pitts, also colored. Clark is laid up and Pitts is in jail.

Preparations are being made for the construction by the Walnut Hill Corporation of an 860-foot steel and concrete viaduct across the valley of Lieutenant Run, to connect their property with the city at the head of Sycamore Street. The viaduct will be built by the Roanoke Iron and Bridge Company.

The grandstand to be erected at the new baseball park will be made to seat between 1,200 and 1,500 people. The grounds will be surrounded by a fence eleven feet high.

Sam Crocker, the negro who some nights ago nearly shot his wife to death, was to-day sent to the Husting's Court for trial. The woman is paralyzed by the injury to the spinal column by one of the pistol balls, and the charge against Crocker may yet be changed to that of murder.

Rev. Father O'Farrell, pastor of St. Joseph's Catholic Church, will leave on Monday for Florida and Cuba, for the benefit of his health.

GREAT JOY IN PITTSBURG.

Wagner Will Be a Shortstop, Not a Jurymen.

Pittsburg, February 24.—"Honus" Wagner, having announced that he was desirous of signing a contract with the Pittsburg baseball club for the coming season and play ball as he never played before, the judges of Common Pleas Court No. 3 have consented to relieve him from jury duty during the term beginning March 6, the date on which the Pirates will depart for West Baden. The shortstop's name was recently drawn from the jury wheel, and he was duly summoned to serve as a juror.

Cold chills ran up and down the spines of all "fans" when it was realized what evil consequences would likely follow the cooping up of the "Dutchman" in a jury box for several weeks when he should be training.

Men of influence went to the front and pleaded with the judges, and at last the latter issued an ultimatum that if Wagner would really do all he said he was anxious to do he need not serve as a jurymen. Pittsburg now breathes a sigh of relief, and already sees the 1911 flag waving over Forbes Field.

LID ON AT FRENCH LICK.

People Protest Against "Tom Taggart's" Monte Carlo.

French Lick, Ind., February 24.—Open and notorious violations of the gambling law here have caused the citizens of the town to revolt, and as a result the "lid" is now on what is frequently termed "Tom Taggart's Indiana Monte Carlo." Whether it will remain so after the Legislature adjourns remains a question.

The people demanded that the town board take immediate steps to stop all gaming, and illegal sales of intoxicating liquors, and also asked that John Ballard, town marshal, be removed, alleging that he was making no effort to suppress vice. The board at once directed the marshal to close all gambling places and "blind tigers." This was done.

It is believed that the gamblers and "blind tiger" operators, who have been watching the proceedings of the Legislature, complied with the order to close for fear conditions in the valley might result in an investigation.

GIRL BLOWN HIGH BY GALE.

Sixteen-Year-Old Child Whirled Thirty Feet into the Air.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.] Winchester, Va., February 24.—Sixty-one residents of Winchester, many of them prominent and wealthy, were haled to-day before Mayor Baker for failure to comply with the snow clearing ordinance, but all cases were dismissed after severe reprimand from the Mayor. Some who did not obey the court summons may be fined for contempt.

Spinal meningitis, resulting, it is alleged, from recent vaccination, terminated in the death to-day of Mary Orndorff, fourteen years old, the daughter of T. J. Orndorff, a prominent business man.

Nelson Henry, an aged Frederick county resident, who started last evening to carry an armload of personal effects from the house his family had vacated to another in the same neighborhood, became bewildered as night neared, and lost his way in the woods. Relatives who searched the mountains all night found him this morning, apparently dead, but strong stimulants revived him. He is nearly eighty years old, and recovery is doubtful.
